

ISABEL LO

Associate, Hearst Ventures

Isabel Lo is an associate at Hearst Ventures, responsible for sourcing and executing investments in China. She is based in Shanghai.

Previously, she worked as a senior investment associate at Amphora Capital, an early-stage venture capital firm managing local government funds across China. She was mainly responsible for deals in advanced manufacturing, business-to-business services and agricultural technology sectors. She began her career as a corporate development analyst and assistant to the managing director at Hearst China. In this position, her deal experience involved early-stage technology, media and telecommunications investments, mergers and acquisitions and joint venture establishment.

Lo earned her bachelor's degree in international journalism from the Communication University of China. She specialized in journalism and mass media.